

Call for nominations for the 2018 IAMP Early Career Award

The IAMP Executive Committee calls for nominations for the 2018 IAMP Early Career Award. The prize was instituted in 2008 and will be awarded for the third time at the ICMP in Montreal in July 2018. Starting in 2018, the prize will be sponsored by Springer.

The Early Career Award is given in recognition of a single achievement in mathematical physics. The total prize value amounts to 3000 Euro and is reserved for scientists whose age in years since birth on July 31 of the year of the Congress is less than 35.

The nomination should include the name of the candidate accompanied by a brief characterization of the work singled out for the prize. Members of the IAMP should send their nomination or nominations to the President (president@iamp.org) and to the Secretary (secretary@iamp.org). A list of previous winners and the details of the award selection process can be found at: <http://www.iamp.org>.

Nominations should be made not later than on January 31, 2018.
